Where Are They Now? In Jail, but Not for Long.

The man captured in a vacationing family's photograph as he stole their bag in front of the Wisconsin Capitol received a five-day jail sentence and a nearly $500 fine. # Obama's Final Push for Democrats

President concludes efforts on the road to bolster voter support

Cleveland

President Obama made Ohio his final campaign stop Sunday in the tumultuous midterm elections, trying to help hard-pressed Democrats in a state that could prove crucial to his fortunes in two years.

Republicans said it was too little, too late, confident their party will pick up more than 40 House seats and give them a majority. Republican control of the Senate seems less likely, though they expect to gain governors' seats.

As he did Saturday in Philadelphia, Connecticut and Chicago, the president implored voters to recall how poorly the Republicans handled the economy when they were in control, and to give Democrats more time.

"It's up to you to remember that this election is a choice between the policies that got us into this mess and the policies that are leading us out of this mess," he told about 8,000 people at Cleveland State University.

But Republicans see Tuesday's vote shaping up as a stern public rejection of two more years of Democratic control on Capitol Hill.

"Obviously the other side is enthу-siastic," Obama said before heading to Ohio, "We've got to make sure our side is, too."

In many races, large numbers of voters have already made their choices. In Ohio, where Democrats could lose up to six House seats, more than 721,000 votes have been cast. California officials already had in hand almost 2.5 million ballots, and Florida officials had almost 1.7 million.

More than 13.5 million votes had been cast early, either at ballot boxes that opened early or by mail. Four years ago, during the last nonpresidential election, some 19 million people voted before Election Day. (AP)

Finish Line for Pontiac

Once-storied brand putters to an end as GM contracts expire

Detroit

Pontiac, whose muscle cars drag-raced down boulevards, parked at drive-ins and roared across movie screens, went out of business on Sunday.

The 84-year-old brand, moribund since General Motors decided to kill it last year as it collapsed into bankruptcy, had been in decline for years. It was undone by a combination of poor corporate strategy and changing driver tastes.

Even before GM's bankruptcy, Pontiac's sales had fallen from their peak of nearly 1 million in 1968, when the brand's speedier models were prized for their powerful engines and scowling grills.

By 2008, the last full year before GM announced Pontiac's shutdown, sales were 267,000, less than a third of those sold in 1968.

Formed in 1926, Pontiac made

Shifting Gears

At Pontiac's pinnacle, models such as the GTO, Trans Am and Catalina 2+2 were packed with horsepower and sported colors such as "Tiger Gold." Burt Reynolds and Sally Field fled the law in a Firebird Trans Am that raced through the 1970s hit movie "Smokey and the Bandit." The GTO, the brand's most storied muscle car, stood for "Gran Turismo Omologato," Italian for "ready to race." It even spawned its own 1960s hit song: "C'mon and turn it on, wind it up, blow it out GTO," was the chorus of the tune by Ronny and the Daytonas. (AP) cars for the working class until a sales slump in the 1950s nearly killed it. GM revived the brand by connecting it to auto racing.

But one strategy that eventually hurt the brand was rebadging: putting the guts of less powerful GM cars inside the skins of Pontiacs. Big economic shifts also damaged the brand, as Americans turned toward smaller cars with more fuel-efficient engines.

About two dozen unsold Pontiacs linger at dealerships across the country. Though their Pon-

Treblinka's Last Voices

Nazi death camp's 2 final survivors work to share their story

Bat Yam, Israel

They are believed to be the last two survivors of the most chillingly efficient killing machine of the Nazi Holocaust: the Treblinka extermination camp in occupied Poland.

Willenberg

Samuel Willenberg and Kalman Taigman, 87-year-old Israelis, are devoting their final years to trying to preserve the memory of the 875,000 people systematically murdered in a one-year killing spree at the height of World War II. Almost all of them were Jews.

Escaping Death

On Aug. 2, 1943, a group of Jews stole weapons, set fire to Treblinka and headed to the woods. Hundreds fled, but most were shot and killed by Nazi troops or captured by Polish villagers who returned them to Treblinka. The survivors became the only source of knowledge about Treblinka, because the Nazis all but destroyed it in a frantic bid to cover their tracks. Samuel Willenberg said his blue eyes and "non-Jewish" look allowed him to survive in the countryside before arriving in Warsaw. (AP)

Only 67 people are known to have survived the camp, fleeing in a brazen revolt shortly before Treblinka was destroyed. After the recent death of a prominent chronicler, Israel's national Holocaust memorial says the two Israeli men are now the final living link to one of the most notorious death camps in human history.

"Soon there will be no one left to tell," Taigman said.

Treblinka holds a notorious place in history as perhaps the most vivid example of the "Final Solution," the Nazi plot to rid Europe of Jews. Only a select few — mostly young, strong men like Willenberg and Taigman — were spared an immediate trip to the gas chambers and assigned to maintenance work instead.

"I live two lives: one is here and now, and the other is what happened there," Willenberg said. "It never leaves me. It stays in my head. It goes with me always."

His two sisters were murdered there. He described his survival as "chance, sheer chance," choking back tears. "It wasn't because of God. He wasn't there. He was on vacation." ARON HELLER (AP)

A Near-Disaster Detailed

Investigators say al-Qaeda wanted to blow up jets — and almost succeeded

Washington

The mail bomb plot stretching from Yemen to Chicago may have been aimed at blowing up planes in mid-flight and was only narrowly averted, officials said Sunday, acknowledging that one device almost slipped through Britain, and another seized in Dubai was unwittingly flown on two passenger jets.

Senior U.S. officials met Sunday to develop a U.S. response to the al-Qaeda faction linked to the powerful explosives addressed to synagogues in Chicago.

Investigators were still piecing together the potency and construction of two bombs they believed were designed by the top explosives expert working for al-Qaeda in the Arab Peninsula, the Yemen-based militant faction thought to be behind the plot.

But authorities admitted Sunday how close the terrorists came to getting their bombs through, and a senior U.S. official said investigators were still trying to figure out whether other devices remained at large.

Such a plot aimed at blowing up jets in mid-flight is not new for al-Qaeda. A mid-1990s scheme hatched by now-imprisoned terrorist mastermind Khalid Sheikh Mohammed aimed to bring down a dozen jets simultaneously, but the plan was shelved in favor of the “flying bomb” approach used during the 9/11 attacks.

After masterminding the attempt last December to blow up a U.S.-bound airliner with explosives hidden in a militant’s underwear, the Yemen terror affiliate appears to have nearly pulled off its own audacious plot capitalizing on weak points in the world’s aviation security and cargo systems.

As the U.S. and Yemen decide a course of action against the terror network, new details have emerged about the events leading up to the near-disaster. U.S. officials said a call from Saudi intelligence with information about packages containing explosives led to a frantic search in Dubai and England.

German Interior Minister Thomas de Maiziere said Sunday that German Federal Police were tipped off to the suspicious package on board the cargo plane Friday. The package was flown from Yemen to the Cologne-Bonn airport, where UPS has its hub. From there it was transferred to a plane bound for Britain’s East Midlands airport.

De Maiziere said that by the time German officials received the information, the package was already en route to Britain. The Germans then alerted their British colleagues, who had also been contacted by the Saudis.

The cargo plane landed in the dead of night at East Midlands Airport in central England on what seemed like a routine trans-Atlantic run. The plan was to stop at East

Passengers Put at Risk

One of the explosive devices found inside a shipped printer cartridge in Dubai had flown on two passenger jets before it was seized, first on a Qatar Airways Airbus A320 jet to Doha and then on an as-yet undisclosed flight from Doha to Dubai. The number of passengers on the flights was unknown, but the first flight had a 144-seat capacity and the second would have moved on one of a variety of planes with seating capacities ranging from 144 to 335.

Behind the Bombs

Prime Suspect

Ibrahim Hassan al-Asiri, considered a key figure in al-Qaeda's most active franchise, is now the chief suspect behind the mail bombs sent from Yemen, according to U.S. intelligence officials.

He is suspected of packing explosives into the underwear of a Nigerian accused of trying to blow up a Detroit-bound airliner last Christmas and sent his own brother on a suicide mission against a top Saudi official last year. Al-Asiri is one of the top leaders of al-Qaeda in the Arabian Peninsula.

Forensic analysis indicates that al-Asiri has a fair degree of skill and training, although all the operations have been unsuccessful. (AP) police precisely how to pinpoint the explosive, which was carefully placed to pass through an X-ray machine undetected.

The search teams went back in and they found the deadly explosive, judged capable of blowing up a plane mid-flight.

What happened in Dubai was even more troubling. The bomb had traveled on two commercial passenger planes.

The package with the second bomb arrived in Qatar Airways’ hub in Doha, Qatar, on one of the carrier’s flights from the Yemeni capital, San'a. It was then shipped on a separate Qatar Airways plane to Dubai in the United Arab Emirates, where it was discovered by authorities late Thursday or early Friday.

Midlands, then continue to Philadelphia and Chicago.

The flight landed shortly after 3 a.m., and British officials removed cargo from the plane for an extensive search. But the search came up empty. Even a computer printer cartridge later found to contain plastic explosives was cleared, and the cordon was removed at about 10 a.m., restoring traffic flow.

The incident seemed almost over — but then officials in Dubai told their British counterparts that a suspicious computer printer cartridge had been found to contain lethal PETN explosives.

College Tuition Costs Shoot Up

Personal Finance

College tuition costs shot up again this fall, and students and their families are leaning more on the federal government to make higher education more affordable in tough economic times, according to two reports issued Thursday.

At public four-year schools, many of them ravaged by state budget cuts, average in-state tuition and fees this fall rose 7.9 percent, or $555, to $7,605, according to the College Board's "Trends in College Pricing." The average sticker price at private nonprofit colleges increased 4.5 percent, or $1,164, to $27,293.

Massive government subsidies and aid from schools helped keep in check the actual price many students pay. But experts caution that federal aid can do only so much and that even higher tuition is likely.

"Just when Americans need college the most, many are finding it increasingly difficult to afford," said Molly Corbett Broad, president of the American Council on Education. (AP)

The Genius of Telecommuting

Working from home benefits both parties if done the right way

New York

Dangerous winds blew across the Midwest this week, and North Dakota got its first significant snow.

With these early signs of winter, small business owners may want to think about letting workers telecommute rather than contend with snow, sleet and ice — and maybe think about allowing them to telecommute long-term.

Telecommuting employees fall into two categories. Many do it periodically, during an emergency such as bad weather or because they have to care for sick children. But workers at many companies have been telecommuting full time or almost full time for years.

Employees can avoid bad weather or care for sick children by working from home.

Management Issues

The great fear among some business owners is that telecommuting employees may be spending more time on distractions like TV or the laundry than they do on their work. They worry that they won't be able to control their staffers if they don't have face-to-face contact each day.

"If I can't see the person doing the job, are they going to do the job?" is the question these owners ask, said Rob Wilson, president of Employco, a Chicago-based resources outsourcing company.

Wilson said owners should be able to tell pretty quickly, from employees' output and the quality of their work, whether they're at their PCs or watching TV. If it's clear they're slacking, then there's a performance issue to be dealt with.

Wilson also noted that in many companies, employees like regional marketing directors are telecommuting out of geographic necessity. And they do get their work done.

Technical Issues

Some owners may shy away from permitting employees to telecommute because they think it will mean a big investment in technology. But Wilson noted that there are many secure Web-based services to help small businesses that want employees to telecommute. (AP) nary — maybe my favorite buses ever — is that they're totally free. Not a dollar, not 25 cents. FREE.

That means everyone can board quickly and efficiently, no pocket fumbling required. You never have to feel bad blowing a buck because you're going only a few blocks in the rain. And even people who normally stick their noses up at public transportation can be persuaded to hop on if one pulls up before a cab comes by.

So, it's no wonder the Baltimore Sun recently reported that the two routes (with a third on the way) are already carrying more than 4,000 passengers a day, which is way more than what the powers that be were expecting. The biggest complaint: Traffic has messed with the timing, so they're likely to come every 15 minutes — rather than the projected 10. Still, I'd say it's a pretty good deal for riders, the environment and the city.

In D.C. proper, the only thing that comes close is the H Street Shuttle, which zips from the Gallery Place Metro station to the nightlife strip every evening. But that's just a temporary service that's slated to stop at the end of the year. For cheapskates, all that will be left are the trolleys in Bethesda and Old Town Alexandria, which each cover just about a mile of territory, making them more cutesy than convenient.

But I'm thinking that if more public transportation were complimentary, people's comments about it would be, too.

How Charming

Except on those lucky — but not so infrequent — days when you board a bus with a busted fare box, there's no such thing as a free ride on WMATA. In fact, with the recent price hikes, the cost of commuting even a relatively short distance in Washington has probably made many folks consider starting a "Fare Is 2 Damn High" party. (Anyone? 2012?)

So, when I hear people kvetch about trains not running frequently enough at rush hour or having to settle for a standing squish rather than a seat, I understand what they're really getting at: "I'm paying good money for this?"

METRO PULSE

What would a politician have to promise to guarantee your vote on Election Day?

"They'd have to do something rather than promise something. But I'd do it for real universal health care and a better energy policy. They'd have to scrap the entire current energy policy and start over."

More Than 219K Vote Early in Md. Elections

Baltimore

Maryland's early voting period has ended ahead of Tuesday's midterm elections.

State elections officials in Maryland say more than 219,000 people voted in the six-day period that ended Thursday night. That was just over 6 percent of all registered voters.

Early voting was more popular for the general election than for the September primary.

About 2 percent of registered voters voted early during the primary. (AP)

Scary Escalator Ride at L'Enfant

Riders say stairwell sped up, caused falls for people at bottom

Washington

Metro riders said a crowded escalator at the L'Enfant Plaza station began to speed to dangerous levels before it was halted Saturday afternoon, causing some passengers to fall as they got to the bottom.

"It was like being on a roller coaster," Robertson, 44, of Anne Arundel County said. "There was nowhere to go. We were really accelerating as we were going down. People were starting to scream and panic."

Metro spokeswoman Angela Gates said an escalator at the 9th and D Street SW L'Enfant Plaza Metro entrance malfunctioned about 2 p.m. while descending into the station, but said she could not confirm reports of witnesses who said the escalator's speed accelerated. Gates said four people were treated for non-life threatening injuries.

"We don't know for sure what happened," Gates said Sunday. She said the escalator has been taken out of service until an investigation is completed.

The incident occurred as Metro stations were crowded with people attending the Jon Stewart and Stephen Colbert rally on the National Mall. Metro officials said a new Saturday ridership record was set, with 825,437 trips taken. (THE WASHINGTON POST)

Air Force Officer Wins Marathon

Washington

With a strong effort just past the 20-mile mark, Air Force 2nd Lt. Jacob Bradosky broke up a pack of four to win the 35th Marine Corps Marathon Sunday with a time of 2:23:30.

"I was told to run the first 20 miles with my head and the last six with my heart," Bradosky said, "and that works very well."

Janet Cherobon, from Kenya, dominated the women's field, finishing first in 2:42:38. Cherobon ran on course-record pace until fading in the final two miles. Gina Slaby was second in 2:46:57 and Erin Moffett took third in 2:50:37.

Another Debacle in Detroit

McNabb is benched as Redskins fall twice to Lions in 2 seasons

Redskins	0	13	0	12	25
Lions	0	7	7	23	37

In his return to the lineup, Detroit Lions quarterback Matthew Stafford threw four touchdown passes, three of them to star wide receiver Calvin Johnson, to lead the Lions to a 37-25 victory over the Washington Redskins (4-4) at Ford Field on Sunday afternoon.

Johnson had nine receptions for 101 yards for the Lions (2-5), who scored 23 points in the fourth quarter.

As a rookie last season, Stafford directed a 19-14 victory over Washington that ended the Lions' losing streak at 19 games. The embarrassing loss, in part, triggered sweeping change in the Redskins' organization.

Redskins quarterback Donovan McNabb was pounded by the Lions' defense throughout the day, then suddenly was replaced by second-stringer Rex Grossman with less than two minutes left and the Redskins hoping to put together a final drive.

Grossman was hit on his first play as he stepped back to pass. The ball was picked by Lions defensive tackle Ndamukong Suh and returned for a touchdown, putting the game out of reach.

"I thought [Grossman] gave us the best chance to win," Coach

Mike Shanahan said.

McNabb, who was not injured, is still the Redskins' starter, Shanahan said. But he said Grossman is more comfortable with the team's offense and more capable of running the two-minute offense.

When asked about Shanahan's move, McNabb said: "He makes the

Report Card

BEST CALL: In the first quarter, the Redskins capitalized on a big Brandon Banks punt return with a perfectly executed screen pass to Ryan Torain for a touchdown.

WORST CALL: After taking the lead early in the fourth quarter, a two-point conversion failed when a kick would have given the Redskins a two field-goal advantage.

WORST ADJUSTMENT: Taking Donovan McNabb out of the game with less than two minutes on the clock for Rex Grossman is completely absurd.

F They have two whole weeks to stew about the loss and a QB controversy. Yikes.

decisions. I just continue to go with it and just cheer for my team."

He said he believes players and coaches still have confidence in him.

"When you get benched, you get benched," McNabb said. "Just have to learn from it and move on."

"I continue to focus as if I'm the starter," he added. "He said I'm still the starter."

NIH is studying a novel medication for rapid antidepressant response and its effect on memory & attention using neuroimaging.

NIH researchers seek currently depressed persons ages 18-55 to enroll in research studies evaluating how an FDA-approved drug, Scopolamine (for motion sickness) versus placebo can help with depression. In one study, the drug is given intravenously over 7-sessions (inpatient or outpatient), in the other the drug is given by patch over 12 sessions (outpatient). Participants must not be taking medications for three weeks prior to starting the study.

The studies are conducted at the NIH Clinical Center in Bethesda, Maryland, and may include brain imaging and attention and memory tasks to help understand the role of some brain chemicals in depression.

There is no cost to participate and travel is reimbursed. Atendemos pacientes de habla hispana.

Sunday Recap

WEEK 8

Top Dogs

David Garrard, QB, Jaguars

Garrard held up a nearly perfect passer rating with a team-record four touchdown passes, on 17-21 throwing. Garrard also ran for a touchdown, and even with three sacks and a lost fumble, his rating was 157.8; perfect is 158.3.

Frank Gore, RB, 49ers

Gore taught the Brits about the joys of the running game, going for 118 yards and a touchdown on 29 carries against the Broncos at Wembley Stadium in London. It was the NFL's fourth-ever regular-season game in England.

Flipping Out in Kansas City

Injuries

Tank Johnson, DT, Bengals: Cincinnati played without Johnson for most of the second half against the Dolphins after he injured his right knee.

Donald Driver, WR, Packers: He missed the second half of the game against the Jets because of a quadriceps injury.

The Numbers

The number of wins the Dallas Cowboys have this season. It's their worst start since 1989, when the team started off 0-8.

10

The number of field goals Dolphins kicker Don Carpenter has made in the last two weeks. He hit five against the Bengals Sunday and five against the Steelers last week.

.500

The winning percentage of the St. Louis Rams, who won one game total last season. They defeated the sloppy Panthers 20-10 Sunday to get back to sea level.

In Brief

PRO BASKETBALL

Heat Smokes Nets, 101-78

LeBron James scored 20 points, Chris Bosh and Dwyane Wade were close behind, and the Miami Heat ended the New Jersey Nets' unbeaten start with a 101-78 victory Sunday. Bosh finished with 18 points, and Wade added 17, both getting most of them in Miami's dominant first half before sitting out the fourth quarter. James played a little of the final period and added seven rebounds and seven assists. (AP)

GOLF

Westwood Overtakes Woods as No. 1 Player

For the first time in more than five years, Tiger Woods is no longer golf's No. 1 player. Lee Westwood claimed the top ranking after PGA champion Martin Kaymer failed to finish among the top two Sunday at the Andalucia Masters in Spain. Westwood is the first European since Nick Faldo in 1994 to be No. 1 and the 13th to be No. 1 since the ranking system began in 1986. Woods had been at the top since the week before the 2005 U.S. Open. (AP)

Oregon Still Atop AP Poll
Oregon has tightened its grip on the top spot in The Associated Press poll while No. 3 Auburn has closed the gap on No. 2 Boise State. In their third-consecutive week as No. 1, the Ducks reached a new high for first-place votes (49) and points (1,487) from the media panel after a decisive 53-32 victory at Southern California on Saturday night. Boise State received seven first-place votes and 1,403 points after four voters switched from the Broncos to the Ducks. (AP)

Clijsters Beats No. 1 Wozniacki

Tennis

U.S. Open champion Kim Clijsters defeated top-ranked Caroline Wozniacki 6-3, 5-7, 6-3 to win the WTA Championships final on Sunday.

Clijsters, who won the title in 2002 and 2003, used a powerful forehand and her vast experience to take control against the 20-year-old Dane. After winning the first set, Clijsters went up 4-1 in the second but Wozniacki fought back to tie the match at 5-all. She broke Clijsters to go up 6-5 on her way to winning the set when Clijsters hit a shot long.

Wozniacki came out strong in the third set, forcing No. 4-ranked Clijsters to make four unforced errors. But Clijsters went up 2-1 and extended the lead to 5-2 before closing out the match. (AP)

Booze Clues

Holiday Cheer

Farewell, Halloween. Sigh. Another year in which we forgot to get a Carmen Sandiego costume together until the last minute. But there's already another holiday here, today, to distract us. Though some of the parties you attended this past weekend probably billed themselves as Day of the Dead parties, the official Day of the Dead is today. So, it's probably a good time to check out the Day of the Dead festivities at Oyamel (401 7th St. NW; 202-628-1005), which features a new dish, mole negro con guajolote, through Tuesday night. Of course, we're most interested in the three new Day of the Dead cocktails, which include the El Diablo Nuevo. The combination of cassis, lime, ginger beer air and Siembra Azul tequila sounds pretty intense, but that's what fall is for. (Also, what's with the name? "The New Devil"? What would that even be? Is it Facebook? It's Facebook, isn't it?)

Be Fall, Already

So, it's November, and it's still not truly chilly. COME ON, WEATHER. It's time for fuzzy sweaters and mac and cheese, and, most important, hot cocktails. We've been waiting to try the heated drinks at Bourbon Steak (2800 Pennsylvania Ave. NW) till it got properly cold, but the spiced buttered rum and the Kahlua/rye whiskey combo sounds too good to wait any longer for. The fact that the weather's not cooperating shouldn't stop anyone from drinking such things. Just ask the restaurant to turn the AC up really, really high.

DVD Review

Most of us didn't learn what we know about time travel from physicists or the writings of H.G. Wells. We learned it all from "Back to the Future," the 1985 blockbuster that introduced us to flying DeLoreans, flux capacitors and Marty McFly (Michael J. Fox), a wannabe rock guitarist who inadvertently befriends the teenage versions of his parents after zooming back to 1955.

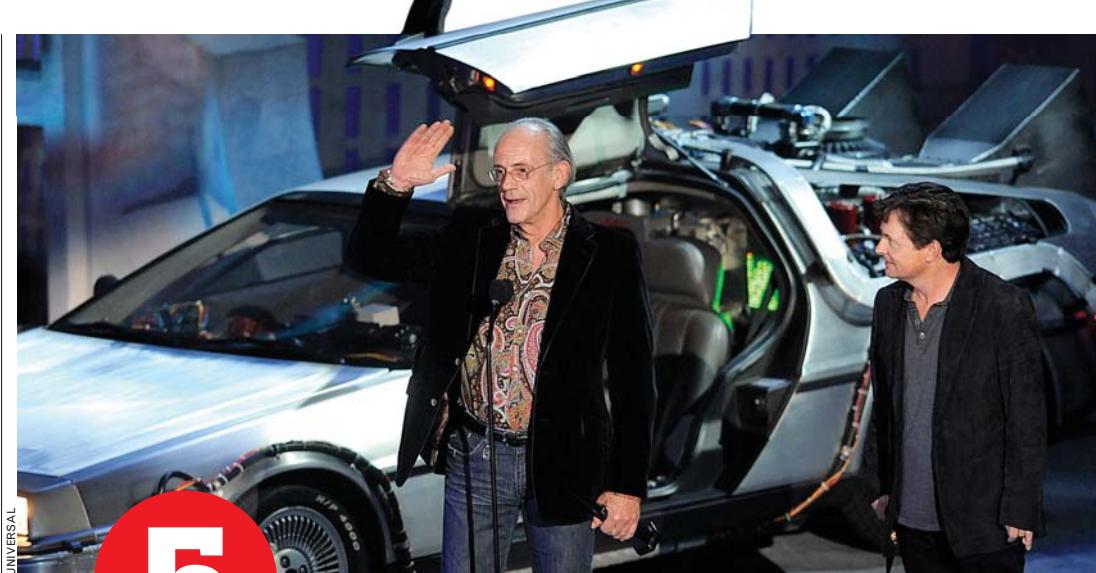

As further proof that time inevitably marches on, the much-beloved Robert Zemeckis movie celebrates its 25th anniversary this year, a milestone that Universal has commemorated with the release of "Back to the Future: The 25th Anniversary Trilogy," a DVD ($49.98) and Blu-ray ($79.98) set that includes the original "Future," the pair of less compelling sequels it spawned and a wealth of bonus material. (And before you ask, no, it's not possible to purchase each of these releases individually. If you want 1, you have to take 2 and 3, too.)

The extra that has garnered the

Christopher Lloyd and Michael J. Fox appear at Spike TV's Scream Awards for "B2TF's" 25th.

Things 'Back to the Future' Taught Us

- When traveling back in time, try to stake your claim on as many pop cultural phenomena as possible.
- If you steal plutonium, there is a very good chance Libyan terrorists will hunt you down in a shopping mall parking lot.
- When ordering milk at a restaurant, there is only one way to do it: "Give me a milk. Chocolate."
- No matter what she says, your mother was totally a cigarette-smoking, booze-drinking chick who put out when she was young.
- If a very dorky guy who can't pronounce destiny punches a bully in the face, he always, always gets the girl. (TWP)

most attention from the "Future" fan base is the never-before-seen footage of Eric Stoltz, the actor who was originally cast as Marty and completed a substantial portion of the film before being fired because, as director Zemeckis explains, his comic sensibilities didn't suit the material. During a new six-part documentary about the trilogy, we finally get to see Stoltz in scenes that eventually were reshotted with Fox, who catapulted to mega-fame.

Another must-see is the original, storyboarded version of the movie's climax, in which Marty and Doc Brown rely on an explosion at a nuclear test facility — rather than the power of a lightning bolt — to get the jolt of energy needed to speed back to 1985.

Back to the Future 25th Anniversary Trilogy (PG)

- Director: Robert Zemeckis
- Stars: Michael J. Fox, Christopher Lloyd, Lea Thompson, Mary Steenburgen, Crispin Glover
- Extras: Behind-the-scenes and never-used footage; the original version of the movie's climax.

The other is the enhanced experience that, on Blu-ray, comes from watching the films in high-def. The movies, making their debut in the format, all look sharper and come with improved functionality that makes it possible to toggle between commentaries and pop-up trivia tracks with seamless ease.

1 Rock Gods

Frightened Rabbit irritated us from the start by being Scottish and having siblings in the band (seriously, hipsters, stop it), but that lasted only until we heard its music. Its tuneful yet head-banging songs require you to rock out without neglecting careful, interesting lyrics. It's really surprising how few bands manage to actually do this. These guys are what everyone else should be. 9:30 Club, 815 V St. NW; Mon., 7 p.m., $20; 202-265-0930, 930.com. (U St.-Cardozo)

2 Music Doesn't Lie, but We Do

Alex Ross, music critic for the New Yorker, has a second book out, "Listen to This." Well, technically, it's a collection of essays that appeared in the magazine. If he took time to write new stuff, WHEN WOULD HE GO TO THE BAHAMAS WITH DIDDY?* Politics and Prose, 5015 Connecticut Ave. NW; Mon., 7 p.m., free; 202-364-1919, Politics-prose.com. (Van Ness) *This is a joke. As far as we know, Alex Ross is very hardworking and has never gone to the Bahamas with Diddy.

3 Scary Movie

All the zombies are gone, but Robert Mitchum's performance as a psychotic preacher in "Night of the Hunter" is plenty frightening. It's part of the AFI's Noir Festival — though we always think of noir as a city genre, and this is set in a small, creepy Southern Gothic town full of hanging vines and sinister accents. AFI Silver Theater, 8633 Colesville Road, Silver Spring; Mon. and Wed., 7 p.m., $6-$10; 301-495-6720, Afisilver.com/silver. ## Kelly Moore, Michael Synnott

Kelly, 30, is an architect. Michael, 27, is a structural engineer. They live in D.C.

THE MAIN EVENT: They will tie the knot Nov. 6 at Kelly's alma mater, the University of Notre Dame.

HOW THEY MET: Through his Ultimate Frisbee team, which needed more women players.

FIRST IMPRESSIONS: "It wasn't until she was dressed in a bubble bath costume that I really noticed her."

FIRST KISS: At the Halloween party where she was wearing the bath. He was a Steelers fan ("which was not a costume at all," she says).

FIRST DATE: After the kiss. He had her over for dinner; she spilled red wine on his carpet.

HOW HE PROPOSED: His housemates, who were also their Ultimate teammates, lived above Michael. While he took her to a movie, they decorated his place with flowers and candles. Once home, he proposed and the housemates came down for a champagne toast.

THEIR SONG: He sings "Hello, My Baby" like Michigan J. Frog to her.

WEDDING JITTERS: She's had dreams where her trumpeter plays "Frosty the Snowman" instead of "Trumpet Voluntary" as she heads down the aisle.

"IT WASN'T UNTIL SHE WAS DRESSED IN A BUBBLE BATH COSTUME THAT I REALLY NOTICED HER." — MICHAEL SYNNOTT

Diane Freeman, Bryan Klopack

Diane, 24, works for HUD. Bryan, 27, is a research director. They live in D.C.

THE MAIN EVENT: They exchanged vows (that they wrote themselves) Oct. 30 in Chicago. The reception was in a six-story glassed-in botanical garden on Lake Michigan.

HONEYMOONS: First, a trip to Puerto Vallarta, Mexico. Then, in the spring, a vineyard tour of Europe.

HOW THEY MET: He was hired at a company where she was interning. "My boss came marching into my office saying she had just found my new boyfriend."

FIRST DATE: Sonoma Wine Bar.

HOW HE PROPOSED: They like to take long runs together. One day, he stopped her halfway and pulled out the ring — or tried to, anyway. He spent four minutes trying to untie it from inside his pants, where he'd stashed it for safety. "After the moment was officially over and I felt ridiculous kneeling while playing with my pants, it came free."

THEIR SONG: "All You Need Is Love," which came on his iPod — on shuffle! — as he knelt to propose.

STUPIDEST FIGHT: White Sox versus Cubs.

PET NAMES: He calls her "Shmoop-a-loop."

Dan Kane, Kara Wenzel

Dan and Kara, both 28, are both lawyers. They live in D.C.

THE MAIN EVENT: They married Oct. 30 in Washington at St. Aloysius Church.

HOW THEY MET: At a happy hour at Lucky Bar.

FIRST IMPRESSIONS: "She was fun to be with. She was active — she wanted to do things. Also, she didn't really want to date me. So, I knew she was smart and had good taste as well." "His personality won me over," Kara says.

FIRST DATE: They spent a chilly Sunday walking all over D.C., from Eastern Market to the Mall to Dupont. "It was polar bear cold," Dan says.

FIRST KISS: Inauguration weekend 2005, when they both missed the last train home and had to crash on a friend's floor. "I have a sneaking suspicion that Kara intended to miss that train," Dan says.

HOW HE PROPOSED: In Lafayette Park. "It was so pretty," Kara says. The moment was a bit different for Dan; right after he proposed, "Kara was jumping up and down and screaming, and the only thing I could think was 'the White House rooftop snipers definitely think I'm robbing her.'"

STUPIDEST FIGHT: Over whether they were best friends or whether they didn't count as best friends because they were dating.

MOST-HATED CLOTHING ITEM: His 15-year-old Boston College hat. "It's 'completely discolored' and full of holes," Kara says.

Horoscope

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) You may think you know exactly why a loved one is doing something, but you are actually on the wrong track. Why not ask?

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

Something that you may have expected to go down like water is hurting far more than it should. A second look reveals the reason.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You are nearing a crossroads of sorts, and the more ready you are to undergo a transformation, the more you can make of it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

Smaller may actually be better; don't make the mistake so many make and go for the choice that satisfies your taste for more.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Are you really ready to stand by another's side for as long as it takes? There may be something at play here of which you are not aware.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You may come to terms with a problem that has been testing you for quite some time. There is no need to prolong this fight.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You're not likely to go for the more conventional options, but you must realize that certain dangers accompany your choices.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Someone you've known for only a short time is likely to do something that affects you more strongly than it should. Investigate.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) The more modern you are able to be, the more likely you will be able to solve the problems that come your way. Today, you pass a major test.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Even though you know the risks, there may not be a valid reason to follow the course of action that exposes you to those risks. Be cautious.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) The more self-control you can muster, the better. Now is not the time to blow off something that is important to someone else.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) How something looks is far less important than what it really is. Trust is the key issue at this time.

LeAnn Rimes Shocked to Find Herself Controversial

LeAnn Rimes was startled to hear about an e-mail sent by Shape's editor to readers calling the October cover, featuring Rimes, "a terrible mistake" "not meant to put a husband-stealer on a pedestal." "I'm getting to the bottom of this. It's the first I've heard of this," Rimes tweeted Friday. "Shape is throwing me a party next week as a thank you and a congrats for being on their cover for the third time. I find this very contradictory." (EXPRESS)

Irritating Holiday Over Now

Lady Gaga, Snooki and other "Jersey Shore" cast members were the top costume choices of Halloween 2010, multiple news sources reported. (Regis Philbin and Kelly Ripa, above, were the Situation and Snooki, respectively.) "Lady Gaga and 'Jersey Shore' have been our top sellers," an employee of novelty shop Ricky's NY told People.com. "Of the 'Shore' cast, Snooki has been the top. Everyone is coming in to find black wigs and Bump-Its." "The Situation is sold out; it's completely gone," a salesperson at Spirit Costumes told E! Online. (EXPRESS)
